

BLAINE'S OHIO TOUR.

THE POPULAR CANDIDATE STILL GREETED EVERYWHERE BY IMMENSE CROWDS.

A Cavalcade of Plumed Riders Escort Him Through Urbana—Speeches at Fostoria, Tiffin, Springfield, and Dayton—Small Armies of Workmen Among His Hosts Enthusiastic Auditors.

FOSTORIA, Ohio, Sept. 30.—A delegation of 100 leading merchants and members of the business men's club called early this morning to pay their respects to Mr. Blaine before he left Toledo. He received them at 8:45 in the parlor of the Boddy house. The meeting was quite informal. The chairman of the delegation assured Mr. Blaine of the warm support of the business interests of northwestern Ohio.

At 9 o'clock Mr. Blaine was driven to the depot. Senator R. K. Bruce, Ex-Gov. Foster, and Judge West, and Senator Plumb, of Kansas, were added to the party of yesterday.

At 10 o'clock Mr. Blaine was driven to the depot, and the usual cheering as the train moved out.

At Braden, a small station twenty miles north of Toledo, there was a crowd who escorted him as far as a saloon, but the train went on at full speed.

The first stop was at Fostoria, the home of Ex-Gov. Foster. There was a large gathering of the station and the depot. Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags.

At Tiffin, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Springfield, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Dayton, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Cincinnati, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Columbus, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Cleveland, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Detroit, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Chicago, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Louis, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Kansas City, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At Minneapolis, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

At St. Paul, a small station, Mr. Blaine was received with cheering and waving of flags. He then entered a carriage and was driven across the town to the Baltimore and Ohio depot, where, as the train started, the people waved their hats and cheered.

THE IRISH-AMERICANS.

A Splendid Gathering at Cincinnati—The Convention Begins Work.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30.—Over 300 delegates to the national convention of the Irish-American Republican League have already registered here, of whom 100 are from Ohio, 15 from Virginia, 40 from Indiana, 40 from Illinois, 20 from Kentucky, 10 from Iowa, 10 from Texas, 10 from Alabama, 10 from New York, and 10 from Pennsylvania.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

The delegates are gathered at the Cincinnati Convention Hall, where they will meet to discuss the platform and the election of delegates to the national convention.

PREPARING FOR THE COUNCIL.

The Work of Arranging the Subjects to be Considered by the Great Catholic Council Nearly Completed.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

The committee of Catholic theologians who have been holding their sessions for the past few weeks at St. Charles college, in Maryland, and at St. Mary's seminary, in this city, expect to finish the work assigned them in a few weeks and submit the result of their labors to Archbishop Gibbons, the president of the council.

WEATHER SERVICE.

THE MYSTERY OF WEATHER PROPHECY EXPLAINED BY THE PROPHET.

Observations from Hundreds of Stations Reduced to Readable Charts in the Washington Office—The Rate of Progress of Storms and Their Direction Known Beforehand.

"How did you find out what it would be?" asked a newspaper reporter of the weather prophet at the signal office, late one night after that gentleman had told him what the weather would be for the next day.

The weather prophet looked somewhat surprised, and said that it would require some hours to answer that question satisfactorily, but there was no great mystery in weather prophecy and if the reporter would wait a little while he would explain the secret.

A number of clerks in the room were busy preparing messages of indications to be sent all over the country. When the reporter had been sent and the clerks had gone, the weather officer turned to seven charts and three maps displayed on the desk and said, "The first thing for you to do is to find out what these charts mean."

Each chart was an outline map of the United States, and was regularly dotted with little circles. These circles represented the stations where observations were taken for the weather bureau. There were figures in and out of the little circles, and different colored lines connecting them.

Rev. John R. Foley, pastor of St. Martin's church, in the morning, in the city of Baltimore, was engaged in the study of the weather charts. He was looking at a chart of the United States, and was pointing out to a group of men the various features of the weather service.

"This chart No. 1, or weather chart," said the officer, pointing to one marked with blue and red lines, "shows the temperature of the air, the direction and velocity of the wind, the amount of rainfall, and the state of the weather at every station of the whole system."

Chicago, Sept. 30.—As the climax to the scene presented last night at McKim's theater, when John McCullough essayed the part of Shakespeare's Hamlet, the company of actors and actresses were all present.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

McCullough's managers state that the performance was a great success, and that the company has been very successful in their tour.

LABORERS' PROTEST.

DISTRICT WORKINGMEN OBJECT TO THE INFORMATION OF ITALIANS.

Some Fervent Observations in Relation to Recent Developments in the Local Labor Market—The War Department Explains the Water Works Contract.

The Federation of Labor unions held an open session at the hall corner of Fourth and a half street last night. President E. W. Oyster stated that the object of the meeting was to discuss the employment of Italian laborers in the water works.

Master Workmen Fanning, of the Knights of Labor, was then called to the chair. He related his experience nine years ago in the southwest when Italian laborers monopolized the market on the Cincinnati Southern railroad.

Daniel J. Munn was chosen secretary and Paul T. Bowen was called upon for an address. He said that men had been working in mud and water on the water works for two weeks, and that the men were paid only $1.50 per day, but not to complain about this hardship but to get on with the work.

A New African Expedition. LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Marquis de Serravallo and Admiral Piatto are about to start at the head of a Portuguese expedition to explore the country between Mozambique and Lake Nyassa.

Scientific Men Studying the Cholera. MANCHESTER, Sept. 30.—The cholera commission, which has been studying the disease, have submitted their report. They state that they followed the progress of the disease by hourly examining the blood of persons stricken with cholera.

Survivors of Southern Prisoners. WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 30.—The New England association of survivors of southern prisoners, held a meeting last night at the city hall.

A Railroad Company Overruled. NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 30.—The corner's inquest into the case of Henry H. Laughlin, who was killed in the Market street depot of the New York and Jersey Railroad, resulted in a verdict that the collision was occasioned by the negligence of the railroad company.

Tumbled Down an Embankment. GALVESTON, TEX., Sept. 30.—The New Heame (Texas) dispatch says: "A serious accident occurred last night at Galveston, Tex., when a passenger train was derailed four miles east of the city."

English Journalists Fear "Reform." LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Times, in a leader this morning, held out a warning to the English journalists that they must not be misled by the promises of the reformers.

A Steamer Strikes a Rock. BOSTON, Sept. 30.—Dispatches to Lloyd's of London state that the steamer "Albatross" struck a rock in the harbor yesterday morning in ten fathoms of water.

The Scott Law Legislation. COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 30.—The supreme court yesterday granted leave to the state to file a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Scott v. State of Ohio.

Hanged by Lynchers. NATCHES, Miss., Sept. 30.—Bill Smith, colored, and a white man, were hanged by a mob of whites in Natches, Miss., last night.

Bishop Gilmore and Mr. Cowles. CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 30.—Bishop Gilmore and Mr. Cowles, who were in Cleveland last night, were seen by a large number of people.

A Wealthy Englishman Missing. MONTECAL, Sept. 30.—W. H. Biggs, son of a wealthy and eminent engineer, of London, England, who arrived at the Windsor hotel last night, is missing.

What England Will Drive France to Do. PARIS, Sept. 30.—The Journal des Debats says: "France, and perhaps in overlooking our relations with England, is in the latter part of the year we will be compelled to accept dependence on Germany."

The Weather. NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The weather was fair and clear, with a light breeze from the north.

THE STATUS OF A MARINE.

Judge Wylie Decides That He Belongs to the Navy and Not to the Army.

The habeas corpus case of James H. Shugart, the alleged minor, enlisted in the marine corps, yesterday. Judge Wylie, in his decision, held that Shugart was a marine and not a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

Judge Wylie held that there was no 21 years old man who was enlisted in the marine corps, and that he was a minor.

FOR A FAIR COUNT.

&lt;